Contains Privileged Information

Because of the potentially sensitive nature of information regarding archeological and historic sites containing cultural resources, the information contained in the Historic Properties Management Plan (HPMP) is not being distributed to the general public. This information has been filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) with a Privileged designation.

A summary of the elements of the HPMP is provided in Exhibit E of the License Application (September 2009), Public Information: Volume 2. The HPMP may be obtained by request to Seattle City Light or FERC, subject to confidentiality provisions.
